THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

Continued Demonstrations of the Rebels in Our Front.

Another Brisk Skirmish at Beaston Station.

Activity and Boldness of Guerrillas and Bushwhackers.

THE RECONSTRUCTION OF THE RAILROAD.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

R. A. PATE sends the following to this Bureau:

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

The enemy continues to be demonstrative in our front. Yesterday, as the Sixth and Ninth New-York cavalry were going out near Beaston Station, to relieve the Fourth New-York and a Pennsylvania cavalry regiment on picket, they were opened upon by the rebels with artillery. A brisk skirmish ensued, lasting several hours, our forces falling back within one mile of Germantown, upon our infantry line. The enemy showed nothing but infantry. There were few casualties on either side.

Guerrillas and bushwhackers are exceedingly bold and their operations extend in every direction. Every day they make some demonstration on our line of communication, and it is even unsafe for our men to venture out of sight of camp. On Sunday evening a gang of bushwhackers fired upon one of our trains between Warrenton and New-Baltimore and captured an ambulance and wagon belonging to the Provost-Marshal's Department.

From other sources we learn that the smoke of the enemy's camp fires can be seen beyond the Rappahannock, indicating that they are there in force, prepared to dispute the passage of the river or the reconstruction of the railroad bridge. A body of their infantry has been discovered this side of the river at Sulphur Springs. Their cavalry pickets are thrown out this side of the Rappahannock, and are in sight of our advance pickets. There are no indications of any immediate advance movement.

Work on the railroad is being prosecuted vigorously, the advance of the army being dependent upon its completion.

Gen. MEADE's headquarters are still at Warrenton.

DISPATCH TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Heavy cannonading was heard at Gainesville, to-day, for more than two hours up to noon, in the direction of Beaston, which is five miles from Rappahannock Station.

At 7 o'clock, this morning, the Second Army Corps started out on a reconnoissance in that neighborhood, where they may have encountered the enemy.

Last night, between 8 and 9 o'clock, ten or twelve teams belonging to the reserved artillery were captured by some 150 guerrillas when two miles from Warrenton, whither they were proceeding. When first hailed, the guerrillas represented themselves as attached to the Thirteenth Pennsylvania cavalry. But they soon after ordered the teams to halt, and stole the mules, a third of which were subsequently recaptured.

This afternoon about 4 o'clock another band of rebels came within half a mile of Burke's Station, 14 miles from Alexandria, and capture 25 or 30 mules, used for hauling wood, together with a wagon-master and several negroes. They ordered the wagon-master to take them to where the guard were, but one of the negroes made his escape, hurried to the guard and informed them of their danger, and they prepared to give the foe a warm reception.

The guerrillas, evidently supposing that they would make an easy conquest, as they had been informed by the wagon-master that the guard numbered only six men, when in fact there were thirty, approached with boldness; but were suddenly driven off by a volley of musketry. Most of these guerrillas were armed with pistols. There were only a few cartridges among them.

Fearful Railroad Catastrophe—A Train Runs Off the Track on the Manassas Gap Railroad—Twenty-Five Soldiers Injured—Fifty Horses Killed.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Saturday, Oct. 24, 1863.

A RAILROAD accident—an unusual occurrence in this section—took place last night on the Manassas Gap Railroad, resulting in the maiming of twenty-five soldiers, several of whom have since died, and the killing of fifty horses or more. The train left Gainesville at about 11 o'clock P. M., and consisted of seventeen cattle cars, loaded with condemned horses belonging to Gen. KILPATRICK's cavalry division, under the charge of Capt. DOWLING, of the Second New-York cavalry, Lieut. WARTRMAN, of the Fifth New-York, aid to Gen. DAVIS, Lieut. SAWYER, Fifth Michigan, and Lieut. McDONALD, First Virginia, accompanied by 150 troopers from the several regiments, as a guard. There being no turn switch at Gainesville, locomotives are necessarily run backward to Manassas Junction—a fact no doubt largely contributing to the disaster. The night was very dark, but notwithstanding this the train moved off at great speed, until a curve about five miles distant was reached, when the track then, being rotten, gave way under the pressure, causing the locomotive to run from the track, dragging with it for several rods eight of the 17 cars; and prostrating them down a slope embankment, a mass of ruins. The soldiers were riding on the top of the cars, and the severe shock and jarring motion caused by the wheels passing over the ties shook them off better, smaller upon the ground. A number of the cars rolling over, some fifty of the mules were turned footback the ruins, and the great wonder is that all were not instantly killed or mortally wounded. Fortunately, considering the circumstances, only five of six were very dangerously injured. The scene, as described by parties on the train who escaped unharmed, was most appalling. The darkness of the night, the rain, the frantic horses endeavoring to extricate themselves, many fairly kicking their way out of the rubbish, and the groans and complaints of the men, crushed under the overturned cars, some calling for help and others praying for death to come that they might be relieved from their torments, all combined, made up a scene of horror that must to be forgotten. Capt. DOWLING, who escaped unhurt, immediately started on foot, his force having been ordered, for Gainesville for assistance. Dr. HAYNES, surgeon-in-chief of the Third cavalry division, accompanied by Dr. GERMANN, chief of First brigade, Dr. KEARNEY, Second New-York, Lieut. HINKEY, ambulance officer, and a corps of hospital attendants and orderlies, promptly repaired to the spot rendering prompt and much needed aid. The cars of the train were nearly all terribly cut, many of the horses were dashed under the debris and heavily, and heavy, cars and some bodies were found dead, and it was not until nearly daylight that all the last could be rescued from their perilous position.

Twenty-five soldiers and two officers were more or less injured, and of the 150 horses on the train, 50 were either killed outright or were so injured as to render the recording of them a necessity. Running a gang of men for hours, fifty or more, to the ill-fated cars, which the train was running, and the usual form, was necessary to extricate.

Annexed is an official list of the injured, as furnished by Dr. HAYNES, all of whom are in the Post Hospital at Catlettsville.

As one survivor from a prison reading over the name of the deceased, was about to subscribing the note, and, unfortunately, got broken. This morning the lowest made a terrible and alarmingly sad, and was anxiously endeavoring to ascertain who would pay him for it. There are some means people even in the midst of "Tuckiversity."

The Movements of Gen. Lee's Army.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

The Star of this city says:

"No information has been received here indicating that the two hostile armies upon the Rappahannock have come into collision again—that is, since Saturday last.

It turns out that the importance of the cavalry fight on that day, on this side of the river, has been greatly magnified.

It is the belief of nearly all military men here that no considerable portion of Gen. LEE's army have recrossed into Fauquier County, as alleged; and his act of laying pontoons across the river in the vicinity of Rappahannock Station, was intended to facilitate the retreat, when pressed, of the portion of his cavalry, and the inconsiderable supporting infantry he threw north of the stream to support his cavalry."

REGULAR REPRESENTATIVE DEMOCRACY.

The Nucleus of a Regenerated Democratic Party—No Close Corporation—Tammany and Mozart Denounced.

A mass meeting of the "Regular Representative Democracy," as it was named in the call, as opposed to the "close corporations" of Tammany and Mozart, was held at Cooper Institute last evening. Although the announcement that James T. BRADY and John VAN BUREN would speak—which is always a sufficient inducement to crowd any Hall where they appear—was not verified, yet there was a very respectable attendance at the hour named.

Mr. S. RAINEY, Esq., called the meeting to order. No party, he said, should be started in a community without having a good reason for so many years the great Iron-hearted Democracy of this City had been at sea, without a head. Their nominations, year after year, had been made, the people having no voice in them. Through the tricknery of "primaries" and inspectors the people were cheated, and the offices either monopolized by the leaders of the "ring" or sold at auction to the highest bidder. The object of this meeting was to disenthrall the people from this corrupt rule of close corporations, and to give them an opportunity to express themselves as free and independent voters.

He nominated for Chairman Judge MATHER, who, coming forward, said he felt proud of being called upon to preside over a meeting of men who knew their rights, and, knowing them, dare maintain them.

Gen. COCHRANE was introduced and met with a warm welcome. He said the party they now met to organize, was based on the great principle of Representative Democracy. This was a true primary meeting, and he asked them as Democrats to declare whether the men who usurped leadership truly represented the people? No. And he rejoiced to see, by all the indications of the times, that the Democracy of New-York was becoming disenthralled, free and emancipated, from the bondage of close, political organization; it had resolved to throw overboard the "Ring," which, born in the purlieus of the City Hall, encircling but a small space originally, had grown until it passed within its embrace Aldermen and Councilmen, "with fat capons lined," Register, street-contractors, street-sweeping machines, and all the paraphernalia of money-making. These men had looked upon the world as their oyster, which they would open with their knife, and that knife was the Democracy of New-York. Their principle—or rather their policy, for principle they had none—was to give and take; one was in to-day and an office he cared not. He went on to expose and denounce the base manner in which the leaders of Tammany and Mozart pillaged in spoils and places. And not only this—but in their political action there was a want of stability and principle which, if they were to be consulted as leaders, would bring to destruction any cause represented by them. As an illustration, he called upon his audience to remember how, on the spontaneous outburst of the popular heart, when Sumter was attacked, Tammany had passed resolutions, voted for both Douglas and Wakeman, Reed, and others, endorsing the war as wisely waged; and directing that a banner inscribed with the glorious legend—"The Union—it must and shall be preserved," should be prepared and hung from Tammany until the rebellion was crushed. Where was that banner now? It had given place to one bearing the name of John E. McCUNN. [Groans.] These renegade and these self-styled "leaders" became to the people whom they claimed to represent. He asked whether the Democracy, by resolutions or otherwise, denounced the blow aimed at the "Home rule" sentiment—so dear to every American citizen—by the intervention of France and England on this Continent. No, the gentlemen of the ring were too deeply absorbed with the spoils of office; and, like honest Peter, were too busy putting money in their purse to attend to the affairs of the nation. Gen. COCHRANE, in passing from a consideration of the principles which this organization held to the men who were to represent them, spoke in scathing terms of Major-Gen. John A. DIX as the foremost figure in the great national Democratic party; and suggested that, retiring and modest as he was, he should—a second CINCINNATUS—be lifted from his retreat on freemen's shoulders, to lead the people. [Thunders of applause greeted the name of Gen. DIX.] He concluded he said: Down with the halls—up with the ring! Let the people know their rights, and, knowing, maintain them. Vote as a free people—but vote for men who represent the people and their cause—who represent the war and the Union. [Cheers.] At the conclusion of Gen. COCHRAN's address, there were loud cries for "BRADY," and the Chairman, coming forward, said Mr. BRADY had not yet arrived, but in his place he would introduce Hon. LEVI S. CHATTERTON. Mr. CHATTERTON said he claimed to be a plain, practical man, and in all his political actions he desired to be the object of an organization before joining it. He had listened to eloquent and had heard nothing but complaints against Mozart and Tammany. There was no platform of principles for themselves. Now, he was as much opposed as any one to the leading principles of those close corporations. He regretted that this organization had not come into the field earlier. If it had, it might have nominated it candidates, and be the Democratic party. As it was, this was but a nucleus—but a beginning. If they desired to be disenthralled from the bondage of close corporations they would have to begin by Ward meetings.

This called up Mr. RAINEY, who said that as his friend labored under a misapprehension as to the action of the committee, it was best to should state the object of the organization. He then described a plan, which he said would be published more fully soon, to secure greater fairness in primary elections, and a fuller and truer representation of the people—free from the control of "managers," and unterrorized by shoulder-hitters.

Mr. ALEXANDER H. RAHNY next spoke.

He said he was pleased to hear declaring that whenever the Democratic party of the City of New-York was from half under control of the most despicable, whenever by a few bad men, enabling a few political wire-pullers to barter the nominations of the Democratic party in the open market, &c. That the regular representative Democratic corp protest their hostility to all close-enough corporations; and that it is imperative that every citizen shall have a voice at the primary election.

Another Speech by Major-Gen. Rosecrans.

CINCINNATI, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

Gen. ROSECRANS, in a speech at the Merchants' Exchange yesterday, where he was most enthusiastically received, said, it was his first effort that if the forces recently sent to Chattanooga had been ordered there before, as they ought to have been, the backbone of the rebellion ere this would have been broken.

The General left for his home at Yellow Springs last evening.

Gen. Sigel at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

This evening Maj.-Gen. SIGEL addressed in the City Hall to his native league one of the largest audiences of Germans ever convened in this city. His speech elicited an immense amount of enthusiasm. To-night he is serenaded at a magnificent German festival.

THE ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND.

ALL QUIET AT CHATTANOOGA.

Attempt to Destroy a Railroad Train with a Torpedo.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Tuesday, Oct. 27.

I left Chattanooga four days ago. At that time nothing of importance in regards both operations was occurring at that point. Our officers and the enemy communicated almost every day and the picket lines. Reports reaching us through rebel sources represented the Union communities of several points in a favorable light.

While I was in Kingston, Alabama, reports came in to the effect that Gen. WHEELER, was again about to threaten our lines of railroad communication between here and Bridgeport. Later reports seem to confirm this.

It is certain there is a force of rebels attempting to interrupt our railroad line of communication with the front. A short time since a train was thrown from the track in consequence of the displacement of some rails, by which several persons were injured—some seriously.

About 12 o'clock last night a very unusual affair occurred. It seems a torpedo was sunk in the ground at a point three miles this side of Tullahoma. Several freight and passenger cars, well loaded, passed over the torpedo. As the locomotive which had been acting as pusher up the mountain was going back, the torpedo exploded under it, throwing the tender off the track, tearing it almost to pieces. Fortunately no one was seriously injured. During this afternoon this same train was thrown off the track between here and Lavergne. Many of the passengers jumped out of the car windows and off the top of the cars, but no one, very fortunately, sustained injuries that will lay them up.

Two days ago three regiments from Gen. SEDGWICK's division, of the Eleventh army corps, were sent out on an expedition by direction of Maj.-Gen. HOOKER. They were eminently successful, took some prisoners, gained important military information, and captured three cars and locomotive.

Do not think our forces are inactive at the front. Although the roads are very bad you will hear favorable news before long.

We took one prisoner, who, it was evident, was engaged in throwing the cars from the track. The passengers wanted to hang him on the spot. The prisoner is now in Nashville.

OPERATIONS IN EAST TENNESSEE.

The Fight Near Philadelphia—Gen. Wheeler Recaptures His Wagon Train, and Loses His Battery—Subsequent Repulse of the Rebels—The People in Virginia and North Carolina Rising.

CINCINNATI, Monday, Oct. 26.

A Knoxville dispatch, dated the 25th instant, to the Gazette, says:

"The engagement to-day was a hand-to-hand affair, lasting over four hours.

The rebel force is estimated at 5,000. They lost in killed, wounded and prisoners over 300.

Gen. WHEELER recaptured his wagon train, but lost his battery.

Our loss is nearly 300.

Gen. BURNSIDE advanced yesterday and drove the rebels below Philadelphia. A running fight was kept up until dark.

Col. CRAWFORD has returned from his expedition to distribute arms through Virginia and North Carolina, and to receive recruits. He was perfectly successful in both States. The people are rising everywhere against the rebels.

Parson BROWNLOW and Representative MAYNARD, were addressing the people of East Tennessee. At Knoxville they spoke to 20,000 people, and were received with enthusiasm.

THE WAR IN MISSISSIPPI.

Movements of Gen. Sherman's Column—The Fight Beyond Corinth—The Rebels Driven Back with Heavy Loss.

CAIRO, Ill., Monday, Oct. 26.

The Memphis Bulletin, of the 24th instant, says:

On the 21st the advance of the Union forces eastward from Corinth met with resistance near Chewalla Station, eight-nine miles from Tuscumbia.

Gen. OSTERHAUS was in the advance and had not moved far when he encountered two brigades of rebel cavalry, under Gens. LEE and PERSON, estimated at 4,000 to 6,000 men.

The fight lasted an hour when the rebels were driven back with severe loss.

Our loss was seven killed and thirty-seven wounded, most of which was caused by catching LEE's cavalry, who were dressed in blue overcoats, for our own forces.

The rebels are said to have very strong fortifications this side of Tuscumbia, on the railroad.

Rebel prisoners report that the enemy expect to make a stout resistance there. They say they had 4,000 men there on Thursday, and received reinforcements of 1,000 cavalry on Wednesday, and that 2,000 more were expected from Gen. BRAGG's forces.

The steamer Mier, bound from Helena to Memphis, while making a landing on the Mississippi side of the river, fifteen miles above Helena, on the 21st inst. was boarded by ten or fifteen guerrillas, who robbed the boat of $20,000 and other valuables, and then set the boat on fire, which was consumed, with a number of bales of cotton. One of the parties was shot, and three others were captured in the vicinity the next day. The boat was owned in Pulaski, and cost $40,000.

The new trade regulations went into effect at Memphis to-day.

Reports from New-Orleans show receipts of nearly 4,000 bales of cotton in one day.

THE GUERRILLAS CHASED FROM MISSOURI.

Gen. McNeil Still in Pursuit.

ST. LOUIS, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

A dispatch received at headquarters represents that all of Jos SHELBY's force had been driven beyond the boundary of the State, and that Gen. McNEIL had crossed the Rocky Mountains in pursuit of the fleeing rebels.

Pain for the Benefit of the Sanitary Commission—A Magnificent Success.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, Oct. 27.

The demonstration to celebrate the formal opening of the Northwestern Fair for the benefit of the Sanitary Commission was magnificent.

The procession was fully three miles long, and was composed of the military, fire departments and benevolent societies.

The streets through which the procession passed were crowded with people.

The Post-office and Government offices were closed in honor of the occasion, and business of all kinds was generally suspended.

The indications are that the fair will be a good success.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER delivered his promised lecture on "America" at the Philharmonic Hall, Liverpool, on the 16th inst. He had a densely crowded audience, and fears at one time were entertained of a riot, Southern sympathizers having plastered the town with bills calculated to inflame the public mind against him. There were large numbers of Secessionists at the meeting, and they did all they could to get up a row and interrupted Mr. BEECHER at almost every step. They were, however, in a great minority, and on the whole Mr. BEECHER's reception from first to last was enthusiastic. He was frequently interrupted by disgraceful outcries, but he showed great calmness and tact, and could not be put down by the clamor raised against him.

Mr. EVERETT showed by favorable arguments how much England was interested in the triumph of the North. He asserted that Slavery was the root and branch of the American trouble, and maintained that the North fought for the Union because it believed that the Union would ultimately secure the emancipation of the slaves of the South.

Mr. BEECHER believed that under the influence of Earl RUSSELL's speech at Blair-Gowrie, and the seizure of the suspected rams in the Mersey, the hostility of the North toward England would disappear.

Mr. BEECHER concluded by pointing out that in view of the threatening aspect of affairs throughout the world, kindred nations—like England and America—should not be estranged, for united they would be a match for the world.

A vote of thanks to Mr. BEECHER was carried with great cheering, but not unmixed with hisses and groans.

On the same day an address was delivered before the Liverpool Southern Club by Mr. BUCHANAN HOYE, who reiterated his oft-expressed strong views in favor of the South.

The Club afterwards entertained Mr. HOYE at a banquet, where Southern sentiments were of course the order of the day.

Sir ROUNDELL PALMER, Solicitor-General, had been addressing his constituents at considerable length on American affairs. He showed that England could not recognize the South until her independence was fully settled. He contended that England was bound to extend belligerent rights to the Confederates, and strongly demonstrated the obligation resting upon England for continued neutrality.

The London Times, in an editorial on that part of Sir R. PALMER's speech which shows that there is no doubt about the spirit and design of the laws respecting the iron-clads seized in the Mersey, says:

"The Ministers have not been counting whether these steamers were designed for the same service as the Alabama, nor whether they could be lawfully dispatched, but whether their suspected destination can be conclusively proved against them. The intent of the law is, however, to make the case perfectly clear. Few will be found to deny that there is suspicion enough to justify the resolution on the part of the Government to reserve the case for trial. The doubts that arise are principally from the difficulty of obtaining conclusive evidence, the case admitting of infinite evasions. The Solicitor-General tells us that the Americans have done as much for others as they are now expecting will be done for them; that they never showed unwillingness to act when urged; but that they found difficulties in the way of such proceedings."

The Times says, in conclusion:

"If this is the state of the law, it is unsatisfactory in the extreme; and as both countries have found the utmost difficulty in bringing the law to bear, the sooner the machinery is improved the better."

INDIA AND NEW-ZEALAND.

The troubles in India and the outbreaks and war in New-Zealand had attracted considerable attention.

It is stated that the Fenians had been intended by 7,000 men, headed by the sons of Dom MIGUELOS, who are thought to be merely the vanguard of a large force. British troops have been sent against them, and other precautions taken to insure their overthrow.

The war in New-Zealand is termed "A War of Races." Energetic measures were being taken by the troops and white colonists for a decisive victory over the natives.

All the British troops in Australia have gone over to New-Zealand, and volunteers would follow, to put the native insurrectionists down.

FRANCE.

The Emperor, LOUIS NAPOLEON, would receive the Mexican Deputation on the 15th inst.

There were some doubts as to whether M. ROUHER or M. BAROCHE would succeed M. BUFFARDEL as Minister of State.

The Paris Bourse was dull, but without any material fluctuations.

POLAND.

Russia had commenced detaching certain parts of Poland from Poland.

A Russian Imperial decree detaches the Government of Augustow and the District of Lowicz from Poland, and incorporates them in the Russian Empire.

It is reported that the Poles have offered an offensive and defensive alliance to Turkey, to recompense all that has been lost of the Ottoman Empire.

It is also said that Russia has notified the Poles that any recognition of the Poles as belligerents will be looked upon as a declaration of war.

The English Cabinet have persuaded their Ministers in regard to the demands of the Poles to be considered belligerents.

DENMARK.

The Danish Government have ordered a large body of troops to be massed on the Southern frontier of Schleswig.

THE RUSSO-AMERICAN ALLIANCE.

From the London Times, Oct. 15.

Whoever recommended the Russian Emperor to send a squadron of frigates to New-York, may congratulate himself on a great success. Now that it is done we see that it was exactly the thing to do, and almost wonder that it was not contrived before to the astute politicians of St. Petersburg. The reconciliation between the United States and the Russian Empire has not only been received by every one with a feeling of satisfaction, but it has even created a sensation in Europe. Both in their arrogance and petulance of a few years since and in their present tone of more limited pretensions, the Americans are Russians have given an accord which indicates the gratification of the two Powers in a new alliance. Nothing could more vividly which Russia's alliance is in the estimation of the Old World, and the American Residents were congratulating provinces in the New, the constant theme of congratulation between the Republic and the Despotism was the decadence of all Powers but themselves, and the certainty that they would subject all the countries about them, one after the other, to their dominion. They both had enormous territory, and regions still more immense, which they could hold by their own wheel, they could. They were good neighbors, unencumbered with the debts, the prejudices and the interior social organization of their older rivals. They had a manifest destiny, and were to fulfill the designs of Providence by pioneering and subjugating all who were not strong enough to resist. And who should resist fifty years hence, when the populations of the two aggressive empires should have doubled and trebled in a fashion impossible in the crowded inhabitants of Western Europe? From these dreams Russia was roused by a war which showed how unable she was to keep the Western Powers, which forced her to dismantle a fortress and cede a province of her territory, and which, if it had continued another year, would undoubtedly have deprived her of valuable provinces. The pride of the United States has still more lately met its fall. The disruption of the Republic, the proof that a large part of the people had ceased to care for the Union—nay, had imbibed a strong hatred against the sense of their country's greatness, the prospect of lingering warfare, to be ended as the wars been only by the extirpation of the Southerners and the ruin of their country,—these things are weighing on the souls of the Federal patriots, whose Fourth of July orations used once to paint such a transcendent future.

In the hour of common trial the Czar gives his officers an opportunity of showing his Republican allies how much their sympathies with each other, and upset the ill-will of England. Not that the secret has guarded throughout would ever hint that their visit had a political object, or that they had anything but respect and esteem for Englishmen, Frenchmen, and all mankind. The coarser part of the speech-making is left to the New-York orators, instead the interpretation of the squadron's visit, as the sign of speedy alliance between the two countries for the punishment of European perfidy, is allowed to be given to the world by the American Press. But there can be little doubt that what has taking place is just what the Czar and his Ministers desired. At a time when he and his brother Poland, late at Washington, are carrying on a rebellion war against so-called "rebels," and seek to be on a peace footing as to the policy of France, the Czar calls upon an exhibition of the mutual sympathy between their respective nations. The time could not have been better chosen, the success could not have been more complete. The Russian officers are the lions of the hour. They are lionized everywhere; the British and French officers remain unnoticed, as would them alike.

To what lengths the enthusiasm of the new alliance can run, and to Federal sentiment is sufficiently thrown by the reported speech at a public dinner and a banquet given to himself and the officers. The health of the Emperor has been drunk with great pleasure, and the Admiral duly returned thanks. The praise which the American Secretary Bancroft, in his Mayoral was, conferred on the Admiral, will have served to fill his cup with pleasure. He said "Sir, I have no subjects." [Laughter.] The Admiral, in reply, said, "Sir, what he has already done, from what he is doing every day, he is certainly entitled to the same surname which Charles V. gave to Charles Quint, claimed, 'The Delight of Mankind.' Sir, we recollect, but these words were spoken, that our country has been preaching to the world self-government and the right of mankind to be free, yet we have seen little strength political principles, unless backed with the bayonets or fleets in interests of the Czar. The support of Russia is valuable, and harmony with the national traditions concerning nationality and popular rights are forgotten in a moment, and the support of a despotic monarchy is applauded for saying that the Prince who is now entering the measures and conclusions to Warsaw, and whose sale has been officially denounced as a tyranny by the most constitutive Powers in Europe, is the Delight of Mankind." Indeed, the community of the two great Empires seems to be the Delight of Mankind, and both are engaged in "putting down rebels," means to have been the sign present to every one's mind. It remains but the hand to make perfect the union between the two nations. Each will lay defiance to the world, relying on the just right to destroy every population and devastate every province which dares to interrupt its plans of empire by any such words as "liberty" and "independence."

THE LATE M. BILLAULT.

The Temps, of Oct. 16, speaks in the following terms of the late M. BILLAULT:

"M. BILLAULT was successively President of the Corps Legislatif, Minister of the Interior several times, and Senator; but he did not play a very leading part until the decree of the 24th of November, 1860, in the full session of the Senate. M. BILLAULT surpassed public expectation; in parliament, laborious and fatiguing, that what constituted hostility, and it is only justice to attribute to him the great part of whatever liberty was imparted by the Institution, now abandoned, of the ministers without portfolio. When it was resolved to take another step toward the parliamentary system, and no longer to send to the Chambers mere government measures, like those of the sixty years, but such measures as were the most hostility [illegible] with the controlling time, and the most capable of satisfying it, nobody was surprised to find M. BILLAULT selected for this embassy and special post. He seemed naturally intended for it; the new ministry of State so defined by the decree of the 24th of last, expression of made for him. The death of M. BILLAULT has therefore all the significance of a political event; and no one will protest if we say that it leaves a considerable void which it will be very difficult to fill up."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Our correspondent at headquarters of the Army of the Potomac writes that the enemy continue demonstrations in our front. On Monday, the Sixth and Ninth New-York cavalry regiments were attacked by the rebels with artillery, near Beaton Station, as they were going to relieve other cavalry regiments on picket. A brisk engagement ensued, continuing several hours, and our forces were compelled to fall back upon our infantry line. There were few casualties on either side. The woods are infested with guerrillas and robbers, who make it exceedingly hazardous for our men to stray beyond camp limits. Gen. MEADE's headquarters are still at Warrenton, and the enemy's camp fires indicate that they are in force beyond the Rappahannock. The work of reconstructing the railroad, which the rebels destroyed, is being prosecuted vigorously.

We have information from the Army of the Cumberland as late as Friday last, when all was quiet at Chattanooga. Reports at Bridgeport, Ala., were to the effect that the rebels under WHEELER were about to renew the attempt to break the railroad communications between that town and Nashville. On Monday night an effort was made to destroy a train of cars with a torpedo, near Tantalow, but no damage resulted beyond the destruction of the cinder. A portion of Gen. SCHENK' division had returned from a successful expedition within the enemy's lines.

The Memphis Bulletin of the 24th inst., contains some particulars respecting the advance of Gen SHERMAN's column eastward from Corinth, Miss., and the engagement near Cherokee Station on the 21st. The command of Gen. OSTERHAUS, being in the van, encountered two brigades of rebel cavalry under Gens. LEE and FORREST, estimated at 4,000 to 6,000 men. At the end of an hour's fighting, the enemy was driven back with severe loss. Our casualties were 9 killed and 37 wounded. The rebels are expected to make a stout resistance at Tuscumbia, where they are strongly fortified.

The fighting near Philadelphia, Tenn., the rebel account of which we published yesterday, seems to have been renewed on the 25th inst. A Knoxville dispatch of that date says that a hand-to-hand engagement, lasting four hours, had occurred, in which the enemy lost 300 in killed, wounded and prisoners. Gen. WOLFORD recaptured his wagon train, but failed to retake his battery. Our loss, also, was nearly 300. The rebels had been driven below Philadelphia at last accounts, and a running fight was kept up until dark.

A party of guerrillas boarded the steamer Mint, fifteen miles above Helena on the 21st inst., and stole $20,000, besides other valuable property, after which they destroyed the boat by fire. She was worth $40,000.

FROM EUROPE.

A fuller synopsis of the European news, left by the Canada at Cape Race, on Monday afternoon, has been forwarded. The American war had been the subject of public discussion. Two meetings for the consideration of this topic were held on the 16th, at Liverpool, one of which was addressed by Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, who had an immense audience, but whose remarks were shamefully interrupted by secession sympathizers. The reverend gentleman, of course, could not be intimidated, and triumphantly continued his address to its proper conclusion. But BERESFORD HOPE had also reiterated his Pro-Southern sentiments to the Liverpool Southern Diner, and Mr. ROUNDELL PALMER had made a speech in which he asserted that England could not recognize the South until her independence was fully assured. Troubles have again broken out in India and New-Zealand, which the British have sent troops to quell. The Mexican Deputation were to be received by LOUIS NAPOLEON on the 17th inst. Russia has commenced detaching parts of Poland and incorporating them into the Russian Empire. The Poles had made overtures to the Sublime Porte of an alliance, defensive and offensive, and Russia had notified the Ottoman Empire that any recognition of the Poles as belligerents would be considered a declaration of war. The English Cabinet had not yet decided to recognize the Poles as belligerents. The Liverpool cotton market was buoyant on the 17th, and holders demanded an advance. Provisions and Breadstuffs were steady. Consols closed at 93¾ for money.

GENERAL NEWS.

Rev. THOMAS M. HITCHCOCK has formed a positive alliance in response to the call of the President for Volunteers. He fully coincides in the necessity of increasing the army, expresses pride in the patriotism of the people of the State, who have never been appealed to in vain to come forward to the rescue of the country, forbids all recruiting in the State except for its own regiments, and announces that the crisis of the war is rapidly approaching, to be passed in safety to the Republic and triumph to our arms, if the additional forces asked for are promptly marshaled for the occasion.

The following-named officers will leave the army on the 1st of December to take their seats in the United States House of Representatives: Gen. BENJAMIN C. SCHENCK, Third District, Ohio; Gen. JAMES A. GARFIELD, Nineteenth District, Ohio; Gen. EBENEZER DUMONT, Sixth District, Indiana; Gen. GREEN CLAY SMITH, Sixth District, Kentucky; Gen. BEN. F. LOAN, Seventh District, Missouri; Gen. FRANCIS P. BLAIR, Jr., First District, Missouri; Col. WM. R. MORRISON, Twelfth District, Illinois.

GOTTFRIED KINKEL, a celebrated German agitator during the revolutionary troubles of the Fatherland in 1848, and since his immigration to this country, edits a noted politician among the German of the Backwoods Council of Schnaberg, in Tuscaloosa, the income amounting to about $1,200.

The price of gold fell 2½ per cent yesterday, closing at 1 per cent. Government Stocks were continued dull. The sales of the Popular stock were $1,342,950. The Railway speculation on the Stock Exchange was buoyant. There was a rise of 1½ per cent on Harlem and 2 per cent on Reading.

Breadstuffs were less freely purchased yesterday—prices favored buyers decidedly, influenced by the reaction in Gold and Exchange. A fair business was reported in Provisions, partly for future delivery, at, in some instances, firmer prices. Cotton and Whisky were broker and heavy. Groceries were inactive. Freights were very dull and heavy. Other branches of trade presented actually no feature—operations have been entirely suspended by the violent fluctuations in the currency market.

The Live Stock trade in brisk just now, being stimulated up by the "cold snap." With the exception of Beeves, receipts at all kinds are large, and there are no more than wanted. Porkers are very busy at work, and much of the best sold at the wholesale markets goes into barrels for shipping. Cattle number 4,070 for the week, of which 3,644 were sold at Forty-fourth-street, besides about 100 left from last week and not counted again. The cattle were, with few exceptions, of ordinary quality, and sold ½c. higher than last week, brokers getting an allowance in favor of heavy weights. The best cattle brought 10½c.—butchers would gladly have paid 11c. for better cattle, could they have obtained them. Most sales were made at 8c.@10c. ℔ lb., and the average of the market was about 9½c. With the exception of 150 taken on Government account, butchers bought up the stock, which was enough for the limited waste after the largest supply ever offered, one week ago. Sheep and lambs are 2c.@½c. higher and selling quickly. Large fat sheep are worth 5½c.@6½c. ℔ lb., and 6c. if of extra fatness.... Live hogs are selling as readily as they can be handled and weighed, at a slight advance, or 5½c.@5¾c. for fat corn-fed, and 5c.@5½c. for still hogs. Receipts very large, amounting to 26,676.

Our Judges and the Political Shysters.

Vastly important as is the election of the Union State ticket next Tuesday, it would not be saying too much to declare that New-York and Brooklyn are at least equally concerned in the success of the right candidates for the local judiciary. There has never before been so distinct an issue presented in this region—whether political legerdemain shall or shall not control the administration of justice. If this be determined in the affirmative, it is a blow struck at the vital principles of society quite as serious, to say the least, to these great communities, as would be any sanction which the State at large could give to the fugitive civil administration of HORATIO SEYMOUR.

In New-York the case in brief stands thus: By the bargaining of Mozart and Tammany, Chief Justice BOSWORTH, of the Superior Court, who has served with great ability and unimpeachable integrity, and who is in the full maturity of his powers, has been set aside for JOHN H. MCCUNN, who has already disgraced the City judgeship by his notorious pandering to every base passion and sordid purpose, wherever found, which he imagines can contribute to his personal advancement. Judge WHITE, of the same Court, who has served faithfully and well, has been set aside for S. B. GARVIN, whose nomination by Tammany against another Tammany candidate was settled, it is affirmed, by a casting of lots. Judge HILTON, of the Court of Common Pleas, whose able and faithful administration of justice no man ventures to question, has been set aside by the same wretched huckstering, for Mr. ALBERT CARDOZO, who, apart from his political deserts, has no claim whatever.

In Brooklyn, an outrage of even grosser character than any of these has been perpetrated, in the "Democratic" nomination made for the Supreme judgeship. The judicial district includes five of the river counties above New-York, and four below. The five, with a population of about 100,000, now have three Judges—one at Poughkeepsie, another at Newburgh, another at ———. The four lower counties, including the City of Brooklyn, have a population of 400,000, and yet has but one Judge, and he living at Flatbush. Brooklyn, though having the great preponderance both in population and in Court business, yet has but a single representative on the Supreme Court bench; and at the last term of this Court in the City, three-fourths of the cases had to go over until the next term, simply for want of a Judge to attend to them. In this condition of things, which amounts, in fact, to an actual public oppression—for there is no better definition of oppression than a withholding of justice—Mozart Hall, by the chicanery in which it so much excels, has successfully foisted upon the Democratic political nominating Convention the name of Mr. BARNARD, of Poughkeepsie, the brother of Judge BARNARD of this City, who, as is well known, is himself one of the Mozart leaders. The agency of Mozart in this extraordinary nomination is notorious; and the Democrats of Brooklyn are expected to sanction it, thus perpetuating the monstrous inequality with which their city has so long been burdened.

Thus it is evident that there has never been such urgent occasion for a rally of all good men in the two great Cities to vindicate the honor and independence of the Judiciary. It appeals to Democrats as strongly as to Republicans. Judge BOSWORTH and Judge HILTON have always been associated with the Democratic party; and were proscribed by Tammany Hall and Mozart, not at all because they did not belong to the party, but because they were above party uses. The opponent of Mr. BARNARD, in Brooklyn—GRENVILLE T. JONES—is indeed a Republican, and one too of signal legal ability and spotless integrity; but the nomination was first tendered by the Republicans to a regular Democrat, the competitor of Mr. BARNARD in the nominating Convention, and, for particular reasons, declined. The Republicans, from the beginning, gave every token of a readiness to renounce all party considerations, and their final nomination was made in just the same spirit.

It seems impossible that these two great cities should have become so enslaved to the vile pack of trading politicians in Mozart Hall and Tammany, as to follow them in such outrages as these upon the sanctuaries of justice. It cannot be not provocative here to break loose from the degrading dependence of past years, and rise once more to the self-assertion of American freemen, if proves that we have at reached a pitch of degeneracy from which it would be vain to hope any future recovery. Our merely executive or ministerial offices can go from bad hands without offending anything but the merely material interests of the City. But if the sources of justice are corrupted, the base strikes to the very heart of our social system, and swift decay must invariably ensue. We believe that there is yet virtue and independence enough to overwhelm these audacious attempts upon the purity of our judiciary. We expect to see such a triumph of popular principle at these judicial elections as shall make these sacrilegious wretches hide their heads in dismay.

Strategy of the Late Campaign.

Some of the Richmond papers are attempting to gloss over Lee's failure in his last campaign to achieve the annihilation of the "Yankee army," on the ground that he could not get a fight out of MEADE. This apologetic statement is in ridiculous contradiction with what every man in either army cognizant of the movements of the respective Generals, knows to be the real state of the case. That the rebel commander, under certain favorable circumstances—as for example if he had been able to plant his army on MEADE's communications and secure possession of the fortified heights of Centreville—would have been willing to stand an attack, is not beyond the bounds of belief; but that, in the language of the Richmond Sentinel, "Gen. LEE, after diligently pursuing battle, was unable to obtain it because his fugacious adversary was too fleet," in drawing the long bow to a length which even a Richmond rebel ought to be ashamed of. Gen. MEADE invited battle at every point along the line of march that admitted of battle. He sought it at Sperryville, at Warrenton, and at Bull Run. In each case the wily rebel General, instead of accepting the proffered gage, attempted strategy and a turning movement, and this of course made a retrograde movement on the part of the Union commander necessary in order to meet him. In this the rebel officers themselves, when hurrying back across the Rappahannock, confessed that MEADE had "completely outgeneraled" them. We confess we think it would have been still better generalship had MEADE been able to compel LEE to fight; but that he did not succeed in doing so was through no lack of willingness on his part, for he was most eager for it throughout, and bitterly exclaimed afterward that it was "like having his eye-teeth pulled out to have lost the chance of a battle."

Judicial Nominations.

The World does itself credit in urging the reelection of Judges BOSWORTH and HILTON, in spite of the fact that they have been thrown overboard by both wings of the Democratic party. Of Judge BOSWORTH it says:

"Chief-Justice JOSEPH F. BOSWORTH, of the Superior Court, is also a candidate for reelection, and not less deserved to be without a rival. It is the universal desire of the bar of New York that he should continue in his present place. It is the desire of every person of honesty and intelligence residing in the City, who knows ought of his character and standing, that he should be reelected. Long years of laborious study, and of practice in the administration of justice strength of mind and soundness of judgment recognized, probity unimpeached and unimpeachable, and the full maturity of physical and mental powers—these are the qualities which recommend Judge BOSWORTH to the suffrages of his fellow-citizens. He is nominated by the McKeon Democracy and by the Republican party. It is shame upon MOZART and Tammany that they did not demand his retention on the bench. In honoring him they would have honored themselves, and vindicated their place among the leaders of the Democratic masses. It is shame upon Tammany and Mozart that the base arts of selfish politicians, the huckstering intrigues of corrupt and venal men, should have made it possible for this honored Judge, who is also a time-honored Democrat, to fail of receiving any Democratic vote. Tammany and Mozart invited votes for JOHN H. MCCUNN, now City Judge, of whom we have nothing worse to say than that he is a lawyer who consents to assist in removing Judge BOSWORTH from the bench."

Of Judge HILTON, it says:

"For the Court of Common Pleas, Judge HILTON has been nominated by the McKeon Democracy and by the Republicans for reelection. Tammany and Mozart have nominated Mr. ALBERT CARDOZO. Judge HILTON has long discharged the duties of his office to the entire acceptance of the bar, and the community at large. His integrity is unquestioned, and his decisions have always commanded the respect of the profession. If he was willing, since he stood in no personal or pecuniary need of reelection, to serve another term where he had already demonstrated his ability to serve the public and the ends of justice so well, it ill did have been the quantity of Tammany and Mozart to make certain his opportunity."

And of the duty of all good citizens in the premises, the World thus speaks:

"As it is, every good Democrat will serve his party, his fellow-citizens and himself by voting to retain these gentlemen in the stations which they have filled without reproach. Judge BOSWORTH and Judge HILTON are both sound Democrats; but if they were not, it would still be true that there is no party obligation which for a moment compares in binding force with the duty of upholding the integrity, independence and ability of the Judiciary."

All this is perfectly just and true, and so it comes from the recognized organ of the Democratic party, we trust it will have weight with every Democrat who has not utterly abandoned all independence of judgment and of action in slavish subservience to the dictates of party Conventions. The union of the Tammany and Mozart wings of the Democratic party was one of the most shameless of the corrupt and unprincipled intrigues by which unscrupulous men have degraded and disgraced the party by using it for their own selfish ends. Both these Judges are Democrats, both enjoy the entire confidence of the great body of the Democratic party, and both have discharged the duties of their positions in a manner to command the respect and esteem of the whole community. Yet they were both remorselessly sacrificed, because the partition of the spoils of office, which alone had brought together the discordant wings of the City Democracy, demanded that MCCUNN should have a place.

We are glad that the World repudiates a bargain so flagrant in its corruption, and certain to be so damaging to the public interests if suffered to be consummated. We cannot doubt that its example will be imitated by the respectable and responsible portion of the Democratic party.

DISAPPOINTED EXPECTATIONS.—The opponents of the Government in this State have just failed in one of their most cherished schemes. They had counted largely on the aid of Gov. BRAMLETTE, of Kentucky, and announced him to speak at several Democratic meetings. Gov. BRAMLETTE, however, discovered that he could not fulfill these engagements, and has announced that fact to the Democratic State Central Committee. The rebel raids which disturb the public peace in Kentucky are designed as the reason. They may have had something to do with his declining, but we suspect other considerations had at least equal weight. Gov. BRAMLETTE is an unconditional Unionist, and sustains the Government in a vigorous prosecution of the war, whatever he may think of the specific measures it may adopt. He sees in the country has denounced more warmly than he the conduct of those who, pretending to advocate the war, resist and attack every measure by which the Government seeks to carry it on. And this is precisely the position of the Democratic party in this State. When Gov. BRAMLETTE ascertained this fact, and came to understand what was was to be made of his Union speeches, he came to the very natural and just conclusion that he could better serve his country at home.

AN UNFOUNDED ACCUSATION.—Ex-Gov. HUNT, in a recent letter addressed to a Democratic meeting, after denouncing the Administration for its alleged violations of the Constitution, adds:

"At the same time, while we are waging a destructive war to compel the Southern States to return to the Union, the Federal Administration refuses to permit them to come back except upon conditions which would reduce them to dependent provinces, involving a surrender of the cardinal rights, immunities and functions which constitute a State."

Unless Ex-Gov. HUNT has fallen from his old standard of intelligence as far as he has from his old level of political principle, he must know that this assertion is without the slightest foundation in fact. The "Federal Administration" has not refused to admit any rebel State back into the Union, nor has it attempted to prescribe conditions of any kind, degrading or otherwise, for their return. On the contrary, whatever it has been called upon to do in this matter, has been done in exactly the opposite direction. Missouri, which was a rebel State, came back into the Union, with the full and hearty assent of the Administration, and without "conditions" of any kind whatever. Kentucky did the same thing, and in his letter to Ex-Mayor WOOD, President LINCOLN told him that whenever any or all of the rebel States should cease fighting, resume their allegiance to the Constitution of the United States, and elect Members of Congress, the war on the part of the United States would cease, and if a general amnesty should prove to be necessary to enable them to do so, "it would not be withheld." Can anything be more explicit or decisive than this? What, then, does Ex-Gov. HUNT mean by his statement on this subject? When and where has the Administration ever indicated a purpose to "reduce the Southern States to dependent provinces," or to require a surrender of any of their "cardinal rights, immunities and functions"? Regard for the memory of his political past, if other motives have lost their influence, should restrain Gov. HUNT from such reckless misstatements.

THE AMERICAN QUESTION IN ENGLAND—BEECHER AROUND.—All England seems to be stirred and agitated with the American question. Orators from North and South are traversing the country, rousing enthusiasm and opposition, and trying to enlist the support of the people, and vast meetings are held in all the great cities to listen to them. By the European news of this morning, we observe that HENRY WARD BEECHER, who had previously spoken to multitudes in Glasgow and Manchester, has held forth to a dense crowd in Liverpool, and that he would next mount the platform of Exeter Hall, in London. Beside BEECHER, Col. LAMAR, of Georgia, has been speaking in Liverpool, defending Southern institutions, (Slavery and rebellion,) and bespeaking the sympathy of England for the Confederacy. Mr. BERESFORD HOPE, Mr. LINDSAY and Sir ROUNDELL PALMER have also just delivered their views of the war—the two former pro-rebel, and the latter (the Solicitor-General) ministerial or neutral. A recent arrival brought us the speeches of Lord WHARNCLIFFE and Hon. Mr. FORSTER—the first rebel, the other Union. Mr. BEECHER, in his Manchester speech, paid particular attention to poor WHARNCLIFFE, who, we believe, is the first titled nobleman of Great Britain that has ever spoken distinctively and publicly for the South; and the way in which the noble Lord was handled by the noble American will be a "caution" to him for the future. We rather like this commotion that is going on in England; and though we doubt not Mr. BEECHER's congregation are very anxious to have him back in Brooklyn, we think they would do well to give him a furlough, until the close of the year, that he may thoroughly stir up the stolid souls and thick blood of Englishmen, and give the London Times something to talk about.

RUSSIAN BALL.—Owing to the press of other matter yesterday, we were unable to publish the names of all the General Committee of Arrangements for the ball given in honor of our Russian visitors. Finding that it is only through each of their number having five tickets that others could obtain them, we now publish in another column the list complete. Should any of the General Committee not require all their tickets, we understand that applications for them made to the Secretary in writing, endorsed by at least one of the the General Committee, will be referred to the Committee on Invitations.

Amusements.

THEATRE FRANCAIS.—This charming little establishment was reopened for the season last night under the very competent management of M. FAVI. JOURNET. There was no lackness present of which any establishment in the City might have felt proud. It was simply limited by the capacity of the house. The piece selected for the opening was the charming comedy of the "Bataille de Dames." It was placed on the stage in a style of creditable elegance and luxury. We need scarcely add that it was acted with much ability; M. JOURNET seldom selects a piece where the accident of a different result is to be encountered. Mlle. ANNE MARGUE was excellent as Louise, and met with a hearty reception; Mlle. LAVAGNEUX, who was heard for the first time, appears to be a capital and well informed artiste; M. FAVI, another acquisition, is a capital young lover, and M. ROUSS, the jeune noble, is unquestionably a very superior performer. The encore of the evening was in fact won by this gentleman. M. DORLIPS, the premier comique, was received with favor. We shall probably see him to greater advantage. A great deal of merited applause was bestowed on the performance. The evening was a complete success.

IRVING HALL.—Mr. GOTTSCHALK's third concert last evening attracted an overflowing audience. The programme was excellent as it usually is, and received the best of accompaniments. Miss FANNY KEMBLE made her debut, and gave abundant proof of the possession of a first-class voice. The lady (who is a pupil of Signor ROTOLI) sings with taste and intelligence. A little experience will convert her into an artist of merit.

BROOKLYN.—The grand performance at the Academy of Music to-night will attract all the fashion and intelligence of the sister city to the Montague-street house. "Macbeth," with Miss CAVANAGH in a lead in itself, but when it is remembered that the entertainment is for an adequate charity, we are persuaded that our reservations judgment will turn out an error. The Dramatic Fund, we not carry to say, needs all the help it can receive from the ready purses of its friends. It does work with the little that it has, and during the past few years has somewhat overtasked itself. Those who think well of the dramatic profession and those who do not, (for true charity relieves no particular class of life,) will, we hope, combine on this occasion to lend a helping hand to a steady and deserving institution.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Verdi's opera of "Il Trovatore" will be given here to-night, for the first and only time this season. All the principal artists are in the cast. On Thursday evening Mr. HAMMERSTEIN will give a grand performance of "Martha" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Mr. EDWIN FORREST, whose highly prosperous season was interrupted last week by a domestic affliction, will make his reappearance here to-night in the highly effective play of the "Broker of Bogota," which has been prepared for the occasion with great and liberal care. Mr. WM. WHEATLEY makes his first appearance this season, in the part of Antonio de Calavera.

Melancholy Accident.

A WIFE SHOT WITH A PISTOL IN THE HANDS OF HER HUSBAND.

A sad accident occurred on Sunday last, at No. 107 Third-street, whereby Mrs. ADDRESS SOMMER, wife of JOHN SOMMER, lost her life. The following are the circumstances as testified to yesterday upon the inquest held by Coroner NAUMANN on the body of Mrs. S.: About a week since SOMMER loaned his revolver to a friend, and on Sunday last he went for it and took it home with him in the evening. Mr. HAAS, the friend, had been threatened on Saturday night by some ruffians, and loaded the revolver, but having no occasion to use it, he left it in that condition. The latter was not at home when SOMMER called for it on Sunday, and a servant handed it to him. The husband took the pistol out of his pocket in his wife's room, and was about to hang it up, when it, from some cause, discharged, the ball entered the back of his wife, passed entirely through her body, and lodged in the groin just under the skin. From the effects of this wound she died soon after. Just previous to her death she made an affidavit before Coroner NAUMANN, in which she stated the circumstances substantially as above set forth. Mr. SOMMER has been ill for the last two years, and this calamity has affected him very deeply, rendering him almost beside himself. The mother has left four children, the eldest only seven years of age.

County Substitute and Relief Committee.

The following statement shows the operations of this Committee up to last Saturday:

Class of Applications Granted.	No. who furnished Substitutes.	No. who did not furnish Substitutes.	No. who failed to go to war.	Tot. of each Class.
Policemen	22	—	—	22
Firemen	433	13	—	446
Active firemen	297	21	—	318
Exempt firemen	56	4	—	60
Indigent persons	707	51	3	761
Totals	1,017	89	3	1,109

The Committee will close their labors with the close of this week. The total disbursements of the Committee, including all expenses, will amount to about $375,000. Of the $2,000,000 authorized to be loaned for their use, $1,000,000 has been raised, of which there probably will be a surplus of $625,000.

The Committee have had little trouble in obtaining substitutes for applicants. About twenty cases a day are now disposed of. A statement obtained from the various Provost-Marshals in the City shows that this Committee have furnished about three-fourths of all the substitutes that have been mustered in, and that the draft here has therefore not secured over 4,000 men. A large number of conscripts have never reported themselves for examination.

Register Your Name To-day.

Every Union man should see to it that his name is registered to-day. The places of registry in the different Wards can easily be ascertained, and the time devoted to this duty will be well spent. It will save much trouble on election day, and also save thousands of votes to the cause. Register to-day and have every Union man you know register.

ELEVENTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT.—The Democracy of this district, which comprises the whole of the Eleventh Ward, had a large meeting on Monday evening, at the Corner of First-avenue and Eleventh-street, and ratified the nomination of JOHN A. LYONS for Assembly, and LEWIS F. COSTIGAN for Senator—the Ward being a part of the sixth Senatorial District. Mr. EDWARD HAGE presided, and Mr. SAMUEL W. SMITH acted as Secretary. Hon. WM. J. GILLESPIE and Messrs. THOMAS J. CHARLES, J. DESMONT HUNT, and JOHN H. HARRINGTON addressed the meeting, urging the Democracy to stand firm and present a united front in order to repair the former misconduct of the party. Mr. LYONS was enthusiastically received, and was very flatteringly received. He declined speaking further than to say that he was unpledged to anybody or anything but his party.

REPRESENTATIVE DEMOCRACY AND CONSTITUTIONAL UNION NOMINATIONS, THIRTEENTH ASSEMBLY DISTRICT.—On Monday evening the Convention of the Representative Democracy and the Constitutional Union party unanimously nominated for the Assembly, in the Thirteenth District, ALBERT H. REAVEY, Esq., a gentleman of the Independent Democracy of the District. Speeches were made by C. K. HUNTER, O. SEGAR HOBART, Dr. MCCLELLAN and Mr. REAVEY, the latter pledging himself to run as against the candidate of the Mozart "meeting."

A ROW AT A POLITICAL MEETING—ONE MAN RAPPY STABBED.—An Democratic Ratification meeting, held at "Mozart Garden," in Columbia-street, on Monday night, a quarrel arose between two rival candidates for the Assembly, and after a short time the row became general. Each candidate was actively sustained by his followers, and many were the black eyes and bloody noses which resulted. One of the party was seriously stabbed, and but for the interference of the Police of the Thirteenth Precinct, who came down upon them in a body, many more would, doubtless, have been badly injured. No arrests were made.

THE COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.—There was no Court held yesterday in consequence of Justice CONNOLLY, who was in the vestibule, being absent from the bench. A large number of cases had to go over, and a large number of lawyers and witnesses to be dismissed and annoyed in consequence. Justices WELSH and GUNDY were in their seats, but Justice CONNOLLY, the presiding Justice, had other business to transact, though its importance did not carry him beyond the walls of the building. The Court is adjourned over to Thursday. Meantime, to prevent a recurrence of such a delay, the Board of Police Justices will convene and make an assignment of Justices for this Court who will be present and discharge their duty.

ANOTHER MAN BRUTALLY STABBED.—A serious stabbing affray took place at a late hour on Saturday night last between some workmen employed in MACHAL's printing-press manufactory, in Twenty-sixth-street. The workmen, it seems, went on a spree. Two of them had a contract to work for a week at a stipulated price, and they refused to join the strikers. One of the latter, named DAVID R. TAUT, while passing along the street, was attacked by a party of the strikers, headed by FRANCIS WEBB. A general fight ensued. Taut was knocked down and beaten, and Webb was stabbed in eight or ten places. Taut was not injured to speak of. Webb was conveyed to his residence.

LIEBER'S LECTURES ON INTERNATIONAL LAW.—The second lecture of Dr. LIEBER's course was delivered last evening at the Columbia College Law School, to a very large and fine body of students of law. His theme was the character, origin and growth of International Law, and the learned lecturer elucidated and elaborated the subject with admirable skill. The study of such topics, under such a teacher, indicates the inception of a more liberal and comprehensive course of study for practitioners at the bar; and the fact that the opportunity has been so widely taken advantage of, speaks well for the future prospects of the profession. No student of law, who should omit to embrace, should fail to enjoy the benefits of Dr. LIEBER's course of lectures.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 21.

INSULTING IN THE EDGEWARE STATES.

Two officers of the regular army have recently come to grief through their connection with the Kentucky funds. Lieut.-Col. RAVEN, of the Thirteenth Infantry, was relieved from duty as examining and disbursing officer in New-York, on Monday, and ordered under arrest to await his trial in the United States Court. Capt. P. S. LOMBARD, 1st of the Twelfth Infantry, his subordinate, who was waiting his trial in New-York on similar charges, has disappeared, and it is feared that he has met his death by violence, although nothing positive is known. Both these officers were indicted by the Grand Jury some time last summer for conspiring with KOUNTZE to defraud the Government.

THE ARREST OF J. A. WILLIAMSON.

The Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Relief Association held a meeting this evening to consider the recovery event and improvement, by Col. BAKER, of J. A. WILLIAMSON, at which Commander LEONE, Russian Minister and other influential attaches of the Government were present, and also Judge-Advocate. After a full recital of the circumstances by hard cases, and speeches such as would naturally be provoked by it, a Committee was appointed to wait upon the President and solicit RATNER's removal from office.

THE RUSSIAN EXCURSION TO NIAGARA

Last Views of the Falls—The Russians Photographed—Their Departure from Niagara—Stopping at Buffalo and Rochester—Home Again.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Monday, Oct. 20, 1862.

Before leaving Niagara Falls, this morning, the officers of the Russian fleet went down in a body from the Cataract House to the stairs leading to the ferry at the foot of the American Falls, where a photographic view of the entire party was taken, with the cataract in the background. It was a beautiful and cloudless morning, and, for the first time since the guests have been at the falls, a brilliant-hued rainbow shot forth from the mists of the cataract, as mounting the early sunbeams, pointed upward, like a painted horn, to the sky. The artist succeeded in getting an excellent negative, and the Russians are delighted at the prospect of having such a splendid souvenir of their visit to Niagara to transmit to their friends at home. The pictures can probably be seen in the shop windows of Broadway in the course of a week. The Russians were fortunate in obtaining views of the cataract under almost all the aspects which it is capable of assuming. On the morning preceding their departure, a lunar bow, which is rarely seen by transient visitors at the falls, appeared under the rays of a full moon, spanning the Canadian Falls in all its transcendent beauty. Late into the night the Muscovites lingered around the banks of the river, crossed over to Goat Island and ascended the tower to gaze at the scene, which, to them, seemed almost a miracle. Thus, in her evening and her morning attire, with first the rainbow and then the moon bow encircling her brow, did the queenly and majestic Niagara present herself to the Russian strangers and bid them a cordial and affectionate farewell.

The excursion left the Falls at 9½ o'clock, A. M., and made the run to Buffalo in little less than an hour. A stoppage there of nearly two hours enabled the Russians to take a general measure of the Buffalonian pavement, and a goodly remote of the fair damsels that their wonted, and to be seen by them. There were no public demonstrations, and each one roamed where he listed; but they were all punctual in bringing up at the Erie Depot at 12 o'clock, the hour appointed for the starting of the train for Rochester. With the engine gaily dressed in Russian and American colors, the special train started out of the Erie depot amid the huzzas of the Buffalonians, and went thundering down the broad gauge of that imperial track at a speed of 40 miles the hour. Flying through Batavia, the people flocked around the depot and offered their congratulations and cheers, as they thundered did at Corning and divers other places. At Rochester, it appeared, and was the "High Bridge" over the Genesee River at Portage to allow the guests a view of the interesting scenery thereabouts and get a meal. The party arrived at Elmira at 4½ P. M., where they were received by a large concourse of citizens and escorted to the Brainerd House, which was decorated with Russian flags, and on the balcony of which a brass band played patriotic airs while the guests marched into the doorway. Some ten or fifteen invited guests, mostly officers of the Erie Railroad, accompanied the Russians from Buffalo to Elmira. Among the number I noticed the jovial and distinguished Judge JOHN C. HOW, who is the leader of the party on the route, and who contributes pleasant an amusing fun to anti-splitting Mugwumpism poem in BONNER's Ledger. The Russians partook of a sumptuous dinner at the "Brainerd," and soon after retired.

RATE RAILROAD GAS, Tuesday, Oct. 21, 1862.

The train started from Elmira at 8 o'clock this morning for New-York amid the parting cheers of the people and the booming of cannon. Arriving at Binghamton, Port Jervis, Goshen, and several of the towns on the route, at which the Russians received the congratulations of the people, who, at all the stopping places came flocking into the cars to get a peep at the strangers. At one of the small towns, a boy of ten years of age—a cripple—came into the cars to gratify his curiosity with the rest, and before he had time to get off the train started. Several of the Russian officers immediately gathered around him to show their sympathy, and one of them took off his cap and placed it on the boy's head, telling the story, and soliciting subscriptions for the lad. Each one showed himself eager to contribute his mite, and the officer returned with a cap full of postage currency, which he handed over to the boy, and received in return his joyous thanks.

A lunch car was provided on this train, as on the Central Road, and a bill of fare, comprising all the luxuries which the beautiful imagination W. H. Bissonnet, of No. 705 Broadway, could supply, was distributed through the train, and each one feasted to partake of his own sweet will of whatever might delight his palate with a feast of good things, while the ears, and enchanted with the beautiful and varied scenery of the Chemung, the Susquehanna, and the Delaware Rivers from without, the Russians were borne down the Erie Railway to the Long Dock at Jersey City, from which they beheld their Government's Fleet lying quietly at anchor on the bosom of the Hudson, the same as when they left it on Thursday last week.

Much of the pleasure and comfort of the last half of the excursion was due to the obliging kindness and thoughtful attention of Mr. BROWN, the Superintendent of the Erie Road, who accompanied the party from Buffalo, and of Conductors Mr. HANSON and W. H. HUGHES, as well as the telegraph Superintendent Mr. BIDDLECOMB.

The Russian officers were met on the New-York side by barges from their fleet, which took them to their several vessels.

To say that they are pleased with the excursion is tame; they are more than delighted, and to the Hudson River Steamboat Company, the New-York Central, and the Erie Railroad, Companies they are under obligations, as under the highest and most lasting obligations.

READ.

HARLEM, July 20, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. Von Eisenberg operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never did for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

New-York, Aug. 22, 1863.

I have been suffering for the last three years from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I have had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting, often with a fullness of my throat, together with a soreness and a dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I now feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful: it is impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured. I give this with great pain and pleasure. I cannot forbear again saying that my voice, which was hoarse and thick when I applied to Dr. Von Eisenberg, is now clear and good; indeed, I feel abundantly satisfied.
JAMES LITTLE,
No. 265 7th-st., New-York.

New-York, Sept. 5.

I have been suffering for years past from a severe Catarrh, with a great heaviness over my eyes, with a severe depression, great uneasiness, and pain in my head, great difficulty in breathing, and a continual accumulation in my nostrils, which gave me restless nights for several years. I have consulted several physicians, who pronounced me to be consumptive. What I suffered for so long a time is indescribable. My system was entirely disorganized and greatly debilitated. I not only felt weak, but I had a cloud continually before my eyes, and my ears were so affected that I was threatened with a total loss of hearing. I must say, I think, I was guided by Providence to come to Dr. Von Eisenberg, who not only cured me of my Catarrh by removing an astonishing quantity of disagreeable matter from my head, but restored me to perfect health, a blessing I have not enjoyed for many years. Now I enjoy a good night's rest, and pursue my business with comfort. I must acknowledge that Dr. Von Eisenberg's mild and scientific treatment for Catarrh deserves the highest commendation, as the principle which directs his system of curing Catarrh is such as to render success certain.
JAMES FURLONG, No. 456 2d-av.

No. 128 Allen-st., New-York, Feb. 6, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a dangerous discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

Introduced by Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.
JOHN TAYLOR.

New-York, July 13, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with congealed blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. His with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.
CARROLL J. POST, No. 39 South-st.

SIGHT RESTORED. June 25, 1863.

My daughter brought me to Dr. Von Eisenberg almost completely blind in both eyes. I could not bear the pain near the light. I am completely cured by Dr. Von Eisenberg, and called now to express my gratitude to the Doctor for his skill and unremitting attention, by which I recovered one of the most precious senses to me after being deprived of it for four years. It is only due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to state that I have tried several physicians in vain. I shall be happy to bear personal testimony to Dr. Von Eisenberg's unrivaled success to any lady or gentleman who will call on me.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.
READ.

New-York, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull insensible in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up in consequence by continual secretion of the throat, the cilia standing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every day threatened it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him when but little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

LEIGHTHILL'S BOOK ON DEAFNESS.

A NEW EDITION NOW READY

OF

ON

ITS CAUSES AND PREVENTION.

BY

DR. H. H. LEIGHTHILL.

One Small Imp. 75th Thousand. Price 25.

The very remarkable sale of this little volume is a sufficient guarantee of its popularity and value. Five editions have been sold within as many months, and a sixth is just ready.

The author's aim has been to produce a book
FOR THE PEOPLE,
not for the medical profession, but for afflicted individuals and families, who, wishing information upon the subject, have heretofore been at a loss for any work treating in unprofessional language upon Deafness and its attending evils. This book fills such a vacuum. It is clear and comprehensive.

The New-York Observer says: "There is a large amount of useful information here embodied for the million, to teach them how to guard against deafness, and and how to treat it when coming on."

The Boston Commercial Bulletin says: "An excellent and comprehensive little treatise, written in a clear and commonsense style, easily understood."

"The suggestions in relation to the every-day treatment of the ear are of the most valuable kind, and should be within the reach of every family."—Buffalo Courier.

The work should find its way into the hands of every individual suffering with deafness, or any accompanying affliction. Its value will be at once appreciated.

CATARRH, DEAFNESS

AND DISEASES OF THE

EAR AND THROAT.

Dr. LIGHTHILL, author of "A Popular Treatise on Deafness," "Letters on Catarrh," can be consulted on Catarrh, Deafness, Noises in the Head, Discharges from the Ear, and all the various diseases of the Ear and Throat, at his office, No. 24 St. Mark's-place. Reception hours from 9 A. M. till 3 P. M.

See eighth page for testimonials for the cure of Deafness.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

The first sensation is usually a feeling of dryness and heat in the nose, and a frequent inclination to sneezing. There is an inability to breathe freely, as the nose becomes stopped up, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other.

Soon a clear, watery, acrid discharge makes its appearance, excoriating the nostrils and edges of the lips, which become red and somewhat swollen. After a few days the discharge becomes thick, yellowish, extremely frequent, and continues to be a marked feature of the disease, and a source of much danger and the greatest annoyance. After more or less time it becomes purulent, highly offensive, and assumes an extremely fetid odor. It is usually so profuse as to require, when confined to the nose, the frequent application of the handkerchief, or, if it drops into the throat, which is more particularly the case while the body is in a horizontal position, constant expectoration, and sometimes both.

Sleep is frequently disturbed by a sensation of choking, caused by the presence of the discharge in the throat. Owing to the heat in the head, the watery portion of the discharge then evaporates, and assuming a condition of solidity, is deposited upon the membrane of the nose and upper part of the throat, in the shape of crusts or hardened lumps. The accumulation of these incrustations produces a feeling of discomfort, and narrows the nasal passages so as to embarrass respiration. Therefore, frequent efforts have to be made to remove them, either by forcibly blowing the nose, or by persistent hawking—a practice as disagreeable to the one affected as it is to those around him. After the removal, that side of the incrustation which adhered to the mucous membrane will sometimes be found bloody—a fact which explains the force required for its dislodgment. During sleep these incrustations accumulate more rapidly, and the feeling is, therefore, most uncomfortable in the morning. Sometimes all efforts to clear the throat are futile until after breakfast or after something warm is swallowed. Some patients state that they are not successful until they have swallowed some whisky or brandy. The discharge, which is at first without smell, assumes in the progress of the complaint an excessively fetid odor, the breath participates in this, and becomes occasionally so revoltingly offensive as to render the patient an object of disgust to himself as well as to others. Ulceration of the mucous membrane of the nose takes place frequently, sometimes even attacking the bones, when small particles of that substance will occasionally be found mixed with the discharge. The accumulation of the discharge, together with the thickened condition of the mucous membrane, renders respiration through the nasal passages very difficult, and oftentimes impossible, necessitating respiration principally through the mouth—a method very deleterious to the general health, but more particularly as to the lungs, as will be shown hereafter. The unpleasant noise produced during sleep, known as snoring, originates from the same cause. The voice loses its musical quality, and assumes a discordant, harsh and nasal character; the sense of smell becomes much impaired or entirely lost, and the same effect, though not so frequent, is produced on the sense of taste. Occasionally, while blowing the nose, a crackling or bubbling sound will be heard in the ear, and hearing will be found quite thick and stopped up, but returns suddenly with something like a snapping sound. This phenomenon is usually repeated until, at one time, hearing lost and frequently and painfully injured. Noises in the head of every conceivable description will make their appearance and add to the distress of the sufferer, and hearing may be lost so gradually that a considerable degree of deafness may exist before the patient is really aware of the fact. The eyes are apt to become weak, irritable and disposed to water on exposure to cold and wind, or after the slightest exertion. A pain, more or less acute, or a distressing feeling of pressure, is experienced over the eyes, and sometimes on the top or back of the head, and also pain in the face, closely resembling neuralgia, for which it is very often mistaken. The distress in the head weakens the memory and produces irritability and moroseness of disposition. The stomach generally suffers more or less, is weak and irritable; the appetite is capricious, and is nearly always bad in the morning. In severe cases the system becomes febrile and prostrated, and there is an aversion or inability to either physical or mental exertion. Not unfrequently catarrh proves fatal, either by debilitating the system and wearing out the patient, or by traveling downward and generating throat affections, bronchitis and finally consumption. It may be safely asserted that after hereditary predisposition, it is the most frequent and important cause of this fatal complaint.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC—THE OPERA.

Director ..... MAX MARETZEK.
SECOND AND LAST SUBSCRIPTION FOR TWELVE NIGHTS.
NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC AND SEASON SUBSCRIBERS.

The Director respectfully calls attention to the fact that subscriptions for the first series of twelve Opera nights will expire on Friday, Oct. 30, 1868.

Within the first subscription term the following Operas, nine in number, have been presented at the Academy of Music, namely:

"Roberto Devereux," "Norma," "Rigoletto," "Lucia," "La Traviata," "Ernani," "Macbeth," "Martha," and "Il Trovatore."

Taking into consideration certain adverse circumstances, such as the sudden illness of two principal artists, which at the outset of the season the management had to contend against, it is hoped that the public and regular patrons of the opera will cordially feel the programmes have been fairly carried out. Indeed, in no other opera-house of mark is it usual, in a season of 12 nights, to present nine operas during the interval. The Fall season will close with the concluding series of twelve nights, as all the artists, one and all, are under contract to sing in Philadelphia and Boston. The Brooklyn New-York Academy of Music is engaged to the German Opera Company, from the 1st of November to the 1st of February, 1869.

The regular Winter season of Italian Opera will begin, under the present management, during the first week in February, 1869.

The sale of tickets of the approaching subscription series of twelve nights, including the other operas of the regular repertoire, the grand Italian Opera, will be revived in brilliant style, and with a cast of unexampled excellence, including in the principal roles the talents of Madame Medori, Mlle. Sulzer, Signor Mazzoleni, and Signor Bellini. In the incomparable dramatic parts there of Signor Bellini, Signor Lotti, Signor Tagliapietra, Signor Lyodis and Signor Colletti, who have kindly consented to appear on the occasion for the purpose of adding to the artistic ensemble of this favorite opera.

LUCREZIA BORGIA,

That master work,

is also to be brought out with a like powerful distribution of talent.

The new biblical opera,

JUDITH,

is ready for immediate representation; and is in active preparation and will be produced next month.

GOUNOD'S

Subscribers are notified that their present seats will be retained for them from this day until Friday evening, Oct. 30, if not secured by that time for the Second Subscription Series of Operas. Those seats will be placed at the disposal of the first new applicants.

BROOKLYN ACADEMY OF MUSIC—THE OPERA.

in her favorite character of Leonora,
MISS BENEDETTA SULZER,
SIG. LOTTI,
SIG. BIACHI.
Conductor ..... MAX MARETZEK.
